Supporting, document for proposed New General Purpose Farm Building for the secure and safe storage of fertilizer together with farm equipment and machinery
December 2020

Douglas Strange and Sons have been farming at Rectory Farm Bosham for over 90 years. The land farmed is 1000acres (404.7 hectares) and the farming is arable, predominately cereals.

The proposed new building will be used for the "Secure and Safe" storage of Fertilizer (as required by law) together with Farm equipment and Machinery. Located between two existing buildings of the same length and style together with the materials chosen to match the existing. There will be little or no visual impact to the surroundings

The New Farm Building is designed to insure the long term future of a sustainable and viable farm and at the same time safe guarding this important source of rural employment. The sitting and design of the new building is similar to that existing on the site.
