

Hi Lisa,

How are you? Well I hope.

I'm finally getting around to doing the plans and the scale. I've just managed to speak to the builders and they inform me the scale is as before 1:50.

I have added this to the drawings and attached. I have also adjusted the "proposed ground floor plan" to account for the angle the house is built at and this makes it appear that the proposed orangery is on the angle across the back of the property, however it will actually be straight and square the property off with the boundary fence line but i felt it was better to keep the house square as per the previous drawings.

I hope this makes sense.

Thanks and sorry for the delay

Danny

Thank you so much.

Work is very manic with the Covid situation so time is short at the moment and I didn't want to rush them.

I will send the through as soon as possible

Regards

Danny

Hi Danny

Thank you for your quick reply.

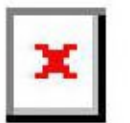

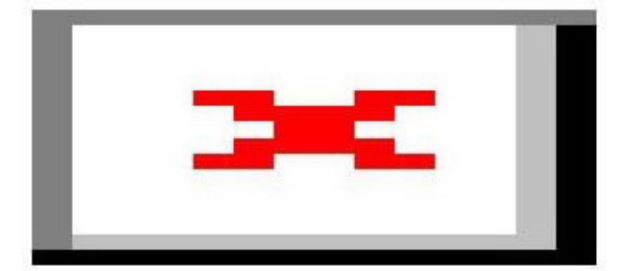

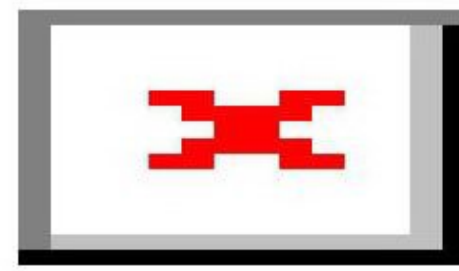

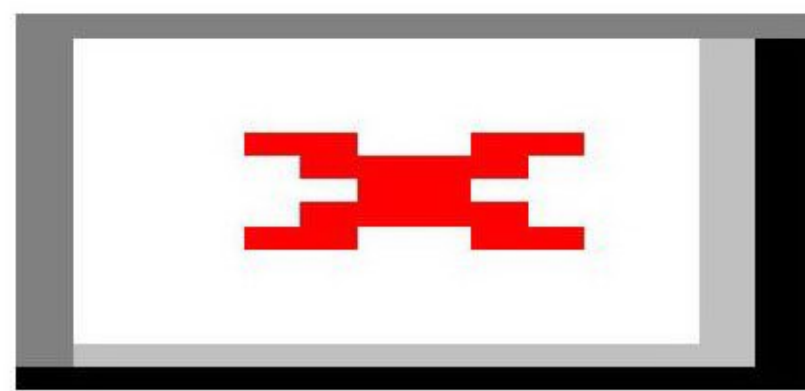

That is fine, as I have moved the next "chase" date for information on to 11 December – so you have plenty of time.

Hi Lisa,

My aim is to do this this evening/weekend.

Is this ok?
