Existing grass verge cut back to improve vehicular turning and parking.

Existing stone path partially removed to create a planting bed at the foot of the house.

Ash tree removed

Concrete lifted.

Existing terrace retained & extended.

Existing planting bed reshaped.

Holly retained.

Existing Forsythia x intermedia thinned.

Existing bank cut into to allow space for the pool. Either side of the pool the banks are reshaped to seamlessly sit with the pool and existing banks as they merge away from the pool.

Four of the newly planted fruit trees are moved to the southern boundary tree and shrub planting.

Existing hedges around the vegetable garden are infilled as necessary and new openings are made.

An area of long grass in the south east corner is cut back to allow space for the new beds. The greenhouse is re-positioned and the layout adjusted.

The path around the house is rationalised replacing the stone with loose gravel and increasing the size of the terrace outside the family door.
