In light of the current Covid-19 climate, we have taken steps to minimise risk to clients, our design team and our business partners. We will follow Government advice as appropriate taking the relevant precautions for meetings/site visits. For the foreseeable future we will conduct client meetings via video conferencing (using MS-Teams). We already operate a remote-working business model and as such we are open for business as usual.

Note that the Planning and Building Regulations approval process is likely to be protracted beyond its normal 5-6 month duration so rather than defer a project it is probably wise to continue to get permissions and a builder in place for when things get back to normal.
