

Dear Mr Turner,

Planning Application 58862/001 HSE Malthouse Farmhouse, Forge Road, Kingsley, Bordon, GU35 9LW

Evidence of a Roman pottery kiln activity has been found at this location in the past and the site as a whole does have some archaeological sensitivity. However all of the works are located where the existing development will already have impacted and compromised the archaeological evidence and these ground works are of small scale.

Accordingly I would not raise any archaeological issues

Yours sincerely
