Dear Sir

I agree totally with the comments raised by the Knockholt Society in relation to the increased building proposal for Fort Halstead.

The point about cyclists on Star Hill happened to me the other day. I was in my car driving up Star Hill and attempted to overtake a single cyclist but I felt it was just too dangerous. Luckily I wasn't in a rush so was happy to just wait behind for a few minutes until he had reached the top of the hill where it was safe to overtake. There are cyclists throughout the week using this road, going to work and for leisure because they like the hills around here. Even now it's an accident waiting to happen. Heaven knows what it's going to be like with even 450 more houses. Surely that access road must remain closed.

I could go on but my points have been raised more than adequately by the Knockholt Society letter. Surely this application must be rejected.

Yours faithfully
