The new scheme at Th	e Pottery seeks to make use of surplus business building	gs by converting them to create a new home for a young family.

5. Description of the Proposal
Direct sales of the pottery have declined over the last ten years. Customers no longer visit the premises to purchase the pottery and the gallery space in the school room is no longer required. Sales are now made through commercial galleries and online channels, although very much reduced. The canteen kitchen/clay shed is no longer used to house the machinery that was needed to prepare the clay and is now surplus to the business. Clay preparation takes place in the workshop which involves less carrying of heavy materials.
