Details of the Starlink dish and method of fixing

Here is a picture of the Starlink satellite dish, with measurements, installed on our nearest neighbour's property:

As can be seen, the dish itself is very shallow, thereby presenting a very small cross-section that would be seen from the road. The dish itself would be dwarfed by the existing TV aerial which is much higher (see photos in Design and Access statement).

There is an existing concrete plate on top of the chimney and the satellite dish will be attached to this using 4 screws.
