Hello

This email confirms that I am happy that you completed a missing page of the advertising application over the phone with me (it's either been missed by me or missed in your system - the page is in my remaining copies of the documents - so it's unlikely I missed it).

I understand I can check this online if I want to.

This email also confirms that I mistakenly signed ownership A & B on the listed application - this was an error (I did not understand the instruction).

I confirm that B should only have been signed so the other signature needs deleting.

Yours
