River Hart

This small three storey mill is separate from the mill house. It is timber framed with brick infill and the upper storey is weather boarded. The tiled roof is half hipped. An external iron Poncelet waterwheel is still in place but is deteriorating. Outside the mill at one end is the base of an engine. The stream which powered the wheel floods easily and has two by-pass channels adjacent to the wheel-pit. The pit-wheel and all the machinery are still in the mill, including two pairs of stones, one of which is a French burr. The pulleys for an internal hoist as well as the grain bins and chutes are intact. The mill is a listed building. The timber framed mill house is also listed and is let out to tenants.<sup>1</sup>
