Hello Robert

Following your advice that some of the land used to demonstrate that a 7.5T FTA rigid lorry can enter and leave the above site is under dispute with an adjacent landowner, we have looked at tracking to see the implications if the disputed land is avoided.

We understand that the land in dispute is that shaded red on the attached drawing 1023-008C. We also understand that there are existing access rights such that there would not be anything physical to prevent vehicles tracking right up to the disputed land.

As can be seen from the tracking provided on drawing 1023-008C, it remains possible for a 7.5T rigid lorry to enter and leave the site without tracking on to the disputed land.

regards
