

Application Reference: 20/02319/ALB & 20/02318/APP

Holymans Farmhouse, Frog Lane, Cuddington, Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire, HP18 0AU

Repairs and Alteration to Outbuilding

Archaeological Survey (level 1)

Location

Grid Reference: SP 737 114

Description

The building, grade II listed, is part (four bays) of a range of former farm buildings. It has latterly been used as ancillary to the residential use of the adjoining Holymans Farmhouse (also grade II listed).

The other part of the particular building is occupied as part of the residential barn conversion known as Holymans Barn. The conversion taking place in 1985/6.

The construction is part timber frame, part witchert above stone grumplings, part boarded, and part modern blockwork. The roof is timber covered in clay tiles over felt. Formerly probably part open fronted the openings are presently filled by boarded doors, timber cladding and windows as seen in the accompanying photographs. The floor is concrete.

Direction of camera for photographs

Photographs

Number 1 East and south elevations, and part of adjoining Holymans Barn

Number 2 South and west elevations, and part of adjoining Holymans Barn

Number 3 Interior of northern most bay

Number4 Main interior looking north west

Number 5 Main interior looking south west