My understanding is that the application would be for E – Offices to C3(a) – Residential (single household).
As this is a listed building it may be that floor plans are required in order to show that there will be no change, or loss of significance, as a result of the change of use. If, as discussed that this is the case, a Heritage Statement needn't be required, but a short statement re-iterating the discussion on site about a sensitive approach, retaining any existing details, not changing the internal layout and potentially re-instating details where these have been lost.
From a conservation perspective returning the building to its original use would be suitable, though there may be policy interest from the perspective of losing office space. I have inquired about this, but have not had a response.
Regarding the single storey building on the rear, we would need to see plans for this to ensure that the detail is appropriate. The approach as discussed on site would be appropriate, though if there was a change of plan to locate the boiler in the basement that would clean up the rear façade.
Please contact me if you wish to discuss.

It is an important principle of decision-making that the process is open and transparent. For the purposes of this question, "related to" means related, by birth or otherwise, closely enough that a fair-minded and informed observer, having	,
considered the facts, would conclude that there was bias on the part of the decision-maker in the Local Planning Authority.	j
