

Tree Information

The existing and proposed site plans show the existing trees and include the assumed root protection areas as calculated by the architect in accordance with the British Standard. Given the existing built form and hardstanding on site, this was considered sufficient and proportionate to the proposed development