This Message originated outside your organization.

Hi Faye,

I have no choice but to apply for full planning and listed building consent –there is no householder and LBC form on the Planning Portal.

I am happy to agree that this is a 'householder application' though given it is alterations to an existing dwelling, albeit it is Listed. This is how I applied for the previous application so not sure why this is different. It is a combined form you complete on the planning portal that splits it for you into the two applications?

I completed the Householder form for FRA with the submission and included a section on this in the supporting planning statement?

I will get a review carried out of the submitted plans to ensure it does as you have requested. Some are quite detailed as related to materials conditions or window details etc.

Many thanks, Natalie.
