At present we have three rooms over our garages, these are currently used mostly for storage. The garages already have fully fireproof ceilings and the rooms have been decorated as typical bedrooms by the previous owner, We would like to move an existing stud partition wall and add an additional wall to install a shower room. There would be no external alterations and no structural alterations. The pipework for drains and water supply would be routed into the rear extension on the ground floor where there is already a toilet & basin. The addition bedrooms and shower room would be used by visitors on an occasional basis.
