Description of Proposed Works

Please describe the proposed works

To add on to the previous planning approved - unfortunately my architect should have submitted these plans months ago but we have just found he didn't, we have been advised to add a new planning due to the previous plans being more than 12 months ago.

1. The previous plans had the floors moving to accommodate the new stairs case and more head space on the 2nd floor bedroom which was agreed and approved. Unfortunately the architect should have specified with the floors moving the windows are having to be adjusted 3 brick courses lower and all windows around the property.

2. due to the extent of the damage to the bricks following the previous fire (before i owned the property) and the new floors supporting beams we have had to look into rendering the property. we will be using Eco render, this will be in keeping with the neighboring property/ies. i am aware a house across the street has been approved recently and the immediate next door was rendered previously too so i am aware we will fit in with the neighbors and the area. the proposed plan is to render all external walls in eco render with in keeping in the area.

Has the work already been started without consent?

Biodiversity net gain

Householder developments are currently exempt from biodiversity net gain requirements.

However, this exemption still needs to be confirmed by the applicant or agent when making a householder planning permission application.

I/we confirm that the proposed development, if granted permission, would be exempt from the general biodiversity gain condition.

Paragraph 13 of Schedule 7A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended) sets out that every planning permission granted for the development of land in England shall be deemed to have been granted subject to the 'general biodiversity gain condition'.

However, the 'general biodiversity gain condition' does not apply in relation to planning permission for a development which is the subject of a householder application, within the meaning of Article 2(1) of the Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2015 (as amended).
