DESCRIPTION

AMOUNT

We are writing to you regarding a large Fagus sylvatica (beech tree) we have situated in our front garden which has severe fruiting bodies all around rootplate and root collar. I believe the tree in question has Meripilus giganteus fungus which could be decaying the root system causing potential windthrow (failure of tree at roots) as the roots become weaker.

(I have recommended to my customer this tree will need to be dismantled) from neighbour Thomas Jordan. @ No. 15

The tree branches overlap his driveway entrance. I have also collected samples of fungus from root system which I shall keep for inspection.
